Watercolor Technique & Color Theory Class

Our second art class was about Watercolor Technique & Color Theory. Our instructor, Janna Bussanich, taught the students how to use three primary colors to create 12 different colors to make their first paint palette. The class was held at the Cottonwood Center for the Arts. Eight veterans attended the class and afterwards, we all enjoyed pizza and refreshments. Our instructor had the students take home their completed watercolor paintings to enjoy.

A big thanks to the staff at Cottonwood Center for the Arts, and for all the volunteers who made this wonderful art class possible.
