Kersey Turkey Hunt

This property in Kersey Colorado is a gem! There is an abundance of wildlife, with the beautiful Platte River running through the property. What a great way to open the spring turkey season. One veteran was able to harvest his bird on the opening day, with snow still on the ground. A very nice Tom, his biggest bird ever. Much of the rest of the day was spent calling and scouting the birds for our second day hunt.

Our second day started with crossing the river through thick bank of fog, so thick we couldn't see the sand bar in the middle of the river. As we waited for first light, the woods came alive with turkeys calling to each other through the thick fog. As the fog rolled back, we could finally make out 2 jakes working their way towards our decoys. This was the first turkey hunt for two of our vets, and both brought home their birds. An incredible time was had by all!

A big thank you to our host Sean Mulligan, our guides Colin Mulligan and Conner Flansburg. We would also like to thank Dreams of the Wild.
